Messages to:

c/- the Funeral Home address (for security purposes)

or www.lychgate.co.nz

or give a family member's telephone number.

WARNING: The police have advised us not to include home addresses in funeral notices as this advertises when a house may be empty for thieves and the like. If someone is willing to mind the house this lessens the risk.

8. Funeral details

- Include place, date and time of funeral service
- Cremation or burial site
- Addresses are helpful
- 'Private' means by invitation only or no attendance by anyone.
When the funeral is private then the notice might read –
'At's request a private funeral was held on
- If service details are not yet known then say – 'Funeral details to follow'.

9. Signed off with the funeral home name

Lychgate Funerals - Telephone 385 0745 If the Funeral director's name appears it gives a central point for people to contact with any enquiries they may have, without disturbing the family. Trust companies or Solicitors who hold a copy of the will, often telephone the funeral home to ascertain who is administering the estate.

10. Newspapers

All newspapers have deadlines so make sure you allow enough time. Check all funeral details are confirmed before inserting the notice. Newspapers charge per line not per word or letter.
